AUTHOR’S CORRECTION

In Vitro Activities of Newer Quinolones against Bacteroides Group Organisms
D. R. Snydman, N. V. Jacobus, L. A. McDermott, R. Ruthazer, E. Goldstein,
S. Finegold, L. Harrell, D. W. Hecht, S. Jenkins, C. Pierson,
R. Venezia, J. Rihs, and S. L. Gorbach

Departments of Medicine, Community Health, and Clinical Research, New England Medical Center, Tufts University School of Medicine, Boston, Massachusetts; R. M. Alden Research Laboratories, UCLA Medical Center, Santa Monica, and Wadsworth Veterans Administration Hospital, Los Angeles, California; Duke University Medical Center, Durham, and Carolinas Medical Center, Charlotte, North Carolina; Loyola University Medical Center, Maywood, Illinois; Mt. Sinai Medical Center, New York, and Albany Medical Center, Albany, New York; University of Michigan Medical Center, Ann Arbor, Michigan; and Pittsburgh Veterans Administration Medical Center, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania

Volume 46, no. 10, p. 3276–3279. Page 3277, Table 1: the heading “% of isolates inhibited at breakpoint” of:” should read “% Isolates for which the MIC was”:’